COUNTY TREASURER MATTER

Supervisor's Committee Calls on Westerfield in Regard to Inheritance Tax

LAW ON SUBJECT IS PLAIN

Treasurer Notifies Committee He Will Inform Them in Time for June Meeting as to What His Course Will be

The special supervisors' committee consisting of Messrs. Gosa, Stratton and Berube, accompanied by the county's legal advisor, Attorney Dady on Monday called on County Treasurer Westerfield to see what he intends doing with reference to the inheritance tax fees which he has retained in his personal possession. This money is that referred to recently in the report of Auditor Sims wherein the auditor explained that there seemed to be a question of interpreting the law as to whether a county treasurer was entitled to retain the 2 per cent inheritance fees or not.

At that time, when he talked with Treasurer Westerfield, he admitted that in many counties the treasurers and supervisors interpreted the law to mean that the treasurer had the right to keep the inheritance tax fees, but that in his opinion the money did not belong to the treasurer personally but should go to the county. He said that it was his personal opinion and he suggested to Mr. Westerfield that before he turned the money over to the county that he get legal advice to guide him; thus admitting in so many words that he himself did not feel positive on the point as to whether the treasurer was entitled to these fees.

Here is the section of the law which pertains to the inheritance tax fees and to which Mr. Sims and Treasurer Westerfield refers to in his statement regarding the inheritance tax fees in Lake County:

386. Treasurer's Commission or salary, 21.

The treasurer of each county shall be allowed to retain 2 per cent on all taxes paid and accounted for by him under this act in full for his services in collecting and paying the same. In addition to his salary or fees now allowed by law.

Following the visit of the committee, Mr. Dady was asked what was done and he stated that the committee had merely asked him to accompany them as the county's legal representative and he had done so. He said that no demand had been made on Mr. Westerfield for the inheritance tax fees and that the committee had not even instructed him to begin a civil suit to recover them.

That all county officials are in doubt as to the exact statute of the inheritance tax fees, is evident from conversations heard among them.

And it is recalled by one county official, that a year ago the same matter came up before the supervisors. The state's attorney, Mr. Dady, was present. He had been discussing the matter with other supervisors. He made the remark that he believed the treasurer must turn over the inheritance tax fees to the county.

Upon hearing his remark, Supervisor Kirchner suggested as follows: "Will you turn to page—section 386 of the book you hold in your hand, Mr. Dady and read the paragraph?"

Mr. Dady turned to the reference after which, with a smile, he remarked: "Well, that's the first time I ever had that called to my attention—the fact is, that in face of that section, I am not positive just what the statutes of the inheritance tax fees is."

Queer Uses for the Crocus.

The crocus is nowadays held to justify its existence by its beauty, but in bygone centuries it was cultivated with an eye to profit—its saffron being in high demand both as an aromatic and as a flavoring for cakes and pies. A distinction of crocus blossoms, also, was held to be good for strengthening the lungs and heart, and as a preventive of plague. Evidence of the flower's commercial value survives in the name of the chief center of its cultivation, Saftron Wadden, but saffron nowadays is appreciated only by the sparrows, who wreck the crocuses to obtain it.

FEAR WRATH OF APPLETON

Lake Forest Residents are worried Over
His Election as Assessor

Wealthy Lake Forest residents are much worried over the prospective visits to their homes of Thomas Appleton, the new assessor for Shields township, for they fear the new official will carry out promises of his friends made right after his election this spring, which came as a big surprise to Lake Foresters. Appleton is the man who many times sought to be mayor of Lake Forest and against whom the wealthy residents always concerted their energies to defeat after picking some candidate whom they were to support. They always defeated Appleton, who naturally has desired to "get even" with those responsible for his failure to become mayor of the city.

This spring when Appleton entered the race for assessor against Timothy Howe, who held the office twenty years, it was taken for granted that Howe, would again be elected without trouble. Many wealthy Lake Forest men never bothered to vote—and when the votes were counted, it was found Appleton had been elected. The assessors are getting ready to begin work of fixing assessments and because Appleton, when a member of the board of supervisors a few years ago from Shields township, always insisted the rich people of his town evaded their just taxes and was always regarded as the middleman's champion, it is taken for granted by residents generally that Appleton will now seek to get at the bottom of their property valuations and reimburse the county for taxes it failed to get in the past.

As result of the feeling prevalent among the rich residents who are helpless in case Appleton carries out threats already made, his circle of friends during the past few weeks has been enhanced by a number of rich men who in the past have always fought him bitterly.

LIFE INSURANCE CO. SEEK TO LOCATE POLICY HOLDER

Where is John R. Ellinwood? The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., admits that the former Waukeganite resident is insured under a policy which has a value.

The company desires the present address of Mr. Ellinwood, if living, or if dead, the names and addresses of his heirs. Anyone having information or clue please write us at once, is the plea of the director of the company.

S. F. Greenleaf, Waukegan's pioneer shoe merchant, claims John Ellinwood was a school teacher in Waukegan in the early '60's.

"Indeed, I do remember him," said Mr. Greenleaf. "I went to school under him. He was a teacher at the old south school. I remember when he left Waukegan, but could not say where he went from there. I do not know if he has any relatives in Waukegan or vicinity."

G. R. Lyon, Waukegan's pioneer merchant, remembers Mr. Ellinwood, as do several other pioneer residents of the city.

The policy is probably worth $10,000 still for ten years the Connecticut Insurance Company has conducted an unsuccessful search for the former Waukeganite.

The big daily papers Sunday printed a complete list of the lost policy holders of the company. Ellinwood's name was the fifth listed under Illinois. His policy was taken out in 1863. He was one of the first to take out insurance with the eastern company.

BANDMASTER A REAL GENIUS

Clever Expedient Adopted to Keep Musicians on Their Feet for Patti Reception.

At Cheyenne, Wyo., the band from an army post had been engaged to play in honor of the visit of Adeline Patti and Etelka Gerster, many years ago.

Strange sounds came from the band, and Patti asked Colonel Mapleson, her impresario, to find out what the tune was. He found the band standing in a circle, so close together that they formed a solid bank, with the bandmaster in the center. Mapleson was about to part them to reach the bandmaster, when the latter begged him to desist and explained that as the band had been on duty for thirty-six hours awaiting the company's arrival, and saloons were numerous in Cheyenne, none of the musicians could stand alone and he had adopted the expedient of standing them in a circle so that each would be supported by his fellows.

"If you take one away," said the bandmaster pathetically, "the whole lot will fall down."

VOLIVA LOSES CONTROL

Official Election Canvass Show
All the "Independent"
Candidates Won

EXODUS OF LOYAL STARTS

Leave City Hall When Leader Say "Go Out of This Den of Iniquity"—and They Obeyed

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, head of the Christian Catholic Church at Zion City, Wednesday lost the reins of government of the city by a canvas of the ballots cast at the city election on April 15.

Following the report of the committee, William Hurd Clendennin, who was counted out as mayor, called on all followers of Voliva to leave the city hall, which they did.

The results of the city election when first announced showed that Clendennin had been elected mayor, and the entire hegemonic ticket fostered by Voliva had been successful over the independent factions.

At a meeting of the city council Monday a committee of three to canvas the election returns. The committee was appointed composed of Aldermen F. L. Norris, W. S. Miller and R. R. Owen, all independents.

The report of the committee was read Wednesday afternoon at a special council meeting. V. V. Barnes, former city attorney, an independent, opened the meeting with prayer, asking divine blessing on all that was to be said or done. The report of the committee was then read.

All ballots which were cast in the second and fourth wards were thrown out by the committee, the report stating they had been tampered with. These two wards cast a large majority in favor of Voliva's ticket.

V. V. Barnes, who had led in prayer, arose and addressed the council, saying he had asked divine blessing on the meeting and refused to stay if the report of the committee was adopted. When the report was accepted he left. With seven independent aldermen left in the hall, J. B. Johnson was declared elected mayor.

With these ballots thrown out, the independent candidates were declared elected. J. B. Johnson was declared elected mayor by 46 votes, the other majorities being about the same. Rees Carr was declared elected city attorney and B. F. Love city treasurer. Two aldermen Ernest Harwood, elder in Voliva's church, and C. R. Brune, were defeated by Charles Minert and C. B. Oberdorff.

At this point the exodus of the Voliva cohorts started. "All the chosen of Israel in Zion follow me from this den of iniquity," said Mr. Clendennin and they went.

PRESIDENT RINEAR MAKES APPOINTMENTS FOR ENSUING YEAR

The Village board met for organization Monday evening at which time the dram shop license was placed at $675 per year the same as last year. The following committees were appointed by President Rinear:

ORGANIZE TO FIGHT INCREASE

Executive Committee Modern Woodmen Call Meeting to be Held in Waukegan

MEETING THURSDAY, MAY 8

Plan to Send Delegates to the Inter-State Association Meeting to be Held at Springfield

It has been thought wise by the Executive Committee of the Modern Woodmen Protective Association of Lake County, Illinois, that a meeting of the camps or delegates from each camp should be held at an early day.

The purpose is to get better organization and in shape to meet and carry on the campaign against a high increase of rates. It will be seen by the Modern Woodmen that the head officers are still insisting that the main question before the next head camp will be the increase of rates, and being so, it is necessary for an increase of rates, and if necessary that we select delegates to attend a meeting of the Inter-state Association, which will be held at Springfield, Illinois, the 14th and 15th of May, for the purpose of creating a more perfect national and state organization.

It is hoped you will be able to send delegates or representatives from your camp in the county will be represented.

The meeting will be held at Waukegan Modern Woodmen Hall on Tuesday, the 13th day of May, 1913, at one o'clock in the afternoon.

Now a word, neighbors: Your executive committee of the county cannot do this work alone and should not. It is of as much interest to you individually as it is to the committee. Your executive committee and the state organization have secured for you, for at least two years, the old rates of assessment and this is a material advantage to you.

—By order Executive Committee.
Fraternally yours
C. T. HEYDECKER,
Chairman.

JOSEPH C. JAMES,
Secretary.

A copy of the above letter was mailed to the Counsel, clerk and members of the Modern Woodmen of America in Lake County on Wednesday morning by C. T. Heydecker, Chairman.

WHITE & TOBIN NEAR LOSS

By Fire in Barn where Vehicles are Kept Monday Afternoon

Spontaneous combustion is believed to have caused the fire that destroyed a greater portion of the White & Tobin barn, Waukeganite Monday afternoon. The loss to the owner Mr. Fred Murray, will amount to fully $2,000.

One man was slightly burned, two others had narrow escapes from injury, when a gasoline tank they were carrying caught fire and exploded. The man who was burned was rolled in ashes.

Property valued at close to $10,000 was saved. Fred Brown led one horse and pulled the ambulance from the burning building. Tom Moore and Edward Tobin pulled the hearse and black wagon from the barn.

The fire department deserves great praise for their work. Property valued at fully $100,000 was in danger from the second the fire was discovered. Had the fire started during the night, it is possible that one or two blocks of business district would have been swept by fire.

The loss to the owners of the barn is estimated at $2,000. The loss to White and Tobin is estimated at $500. Two tons of hay, one ton of straw and a large quantity of grain was destroyed by fire. Mr. White does not believe that the fire started by cross wires. He points out that the fire started in rear of the barn and an investigation shows that the electric wires did not lead into that section of the barn.

FERRY'S HEIRS TO SUE $22,500

Waukegan officials have been served with notice that the heirs of the late Edward Ferry estate, are to start suit against the city in the sum of $10,000, charging the city was responsible for his death. This suit will make an aggregate of $22,500 asked in damages as the result of an automobile accident that took place on North Sheridan Road late last fall in which Edward Ferry of Zion City lost his life and three other men sustained serious injuries.

Henry Sine has sued for $10,000 and J. S. Neal for $2,500. James Ferry, the other occupant of the car when the accident took place, has not started suit as yet. At the time of the accident it was decided that no suit would be started by the Ferry's but they have apparently reconsidered and decided that they are entitled to damages.

The accident is recalled by all. James Ferry was driving the automobile back to Zion and with him were two other men. On North Sheridan Road the machine struck on obstruction in the road in front of Dr. Bouton's new home, and the occupants of the car were hurled several feet to the pavement. The victims were rushed to the Jane McAllister hospital. Edward Ferry died during the night. Neal was able to return to his home the same night and James Ferry a short time later. Henry Sine was badly hurt and for a time it was feared he would not live.

At the coroner's inquest it was shown that no light had been left burning on the obstruction. The jury brought in a verdict in which the city was blamed for leaving the obstruction unprotected.

The city officials declare they have some evidence which did not come out at the coroner's inquest so for this reason the hearing of the damage actions should be interesting.

WILL LOBBY AGAINST BILL

Delegation will Visit Springfield in Effort to Defeat Its Passage

Representative business and professional men of Waukegan held a meeting in the council chambers on Saturday night at which plans were discussed for sending a delegation to Springfield to lobby against the passage of the proposed five-mile dry zone bill. In view of the fact that there has been considerable discussion as to whether or not Representative Fayette S. Munroe of Highland Park would favor the proposed bill, he was reached on the long distance telephone at his home and was requested to attend the meeting. He complied and in response to a question replied pointedly that he is doing all in his power to insure the passage of the proposed law, as he explained that the people who elected him are in favor of the dry zone about the naval training station. He did not reply when it was pointed out to him that he received a good vote in Waukegan.

Those who oppose the passage of the bill have now eliminated Mr. Munroe from their plans. Representatives Shurtliff and Graham both have expressed themselves clearly as being opposed to the passage of the bill. Both of these legislators were in Chicago on Monday and several business and professional men, including Mayor Bldinger and other city officials held a conference with them.

That Waukegan as well as North Chicago, will send a big delegation to Springfield to lobby against the bill was decided at the meeting Saturday night. The exact plan of action has not yet been mapped out, but will be left largely to Mr. Shurtliff, who has promised to keep the city posted on the conditions at Springfield and to give them plenty of time to get there. Both he and Mr. Graham are doing their best to defeat the measure.

With regard to the statement made that he favored a compromise Mr. Shurtliff declared that it was a positive falsehood, as he says he has stood put on the proposition all the way through.

To Cure a Stiff Shoulder.
If you have had a stiff shoulder and want to regain the full range of movement, the following simple plan has been recommended: Stand close to the wall and put your fingers on it; then creep up the wall with your fingers as high as you can. At first the stiffness will prevent you going very high. Make a pencil mark to show the level you reach. Each day you ought to get a little higher, but on no account must you ever fall short of the mark of the previous day, or the spell is broken. When you have reached as high with the injured arm as you can with the sound one you are cured.—From the Family Doctor.

SOLDIERS FLEE POST

Excitement at Fort Sheridan
Tuesday When Three Enlisted Men Escape

CAPTURED NEAR GLENCOE

Prisoners Were Short Term Men and Sentry, Who Escaped With Them, was of Troop K 15th Infantry

Excitement was created at noon on Tuesday at Fort Sheridan when it was discovered that a sentry who was in charge of two prisoners working near the stables in the south portion of the post, had made their escape. Their non-arrival at mess was what led to the discovery that they were gone, and at once every soldier at the post, some 250 in all was scurrying all over the surrounding territory in an effort to locate the missing men.

The prisoners were: William Clark, sentry, Troop K, 15th infantry; Marcus Wilson; Charles Bubbitt.

It is believed they had made good their escape, the belief being that they had outside aid from friends who had brought citizens' clothes which they hastily donned after leaving the grounds, and therefore have made their way unnoticed into either Chicago or north to Milwaukee.

The fact that the sentry went with the men shows that he was with them in a plan to escape. He was a member of Troop K, 15th infantry, and if he be recaptured his punishment will be more severe than the prisoners themselves. The latter were a two-year man and an 18-month prisoner, both having been in prison but a short time.

The discovery of a pool of blood near where the three men were working has caused a sensation and a feeling prevails that perhaps Sentry Clarke was murdered. The soldiers are now searching the woods in an effort to find his body. Clarke was a man whom the officers declared would not have run off with the prisoners, and they seem to feel he was killed by the prisoners who later made their escape.

Later—The divided opinions in the matter were set at rest late Wednesday afternoon when the deserters were captured. The sentry joined the men in their second desertion dropping his rifle near some red paint.

The abandoned rifle and the red spots at first gave rise to the suspicion that Clark had been murdered before the prisoners escaped. This theory was not abandoned until Sergeant Netcher of Troop L and a number of his men caught the three men hiding in a clump of bushes north of Glencoe.

The deserters were taken back to the fort and placed in the guardhouse. Clark will soon be brought before a court-martial and tried for desertion and allowing his prisoners to escape. Bubbitt and Wilson had deserted about three months ago and recently were found guilty and sentenced.

A. RUNYARD AND ELLEN GRAVES DOREY MARRIED WEDNESDAY

On Wednesday evening at the home of Lewis Sherman at Brighton, Wis., Miss Ellen Graves Dorey of Salem, Wis., was united in marriage to Mr. Ambrose Runyard of this place. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Sixrud in the presence of a number of relatives and friends.

The bride has made her home at Salem a little over a year, having come from England at that time. Mr. and Mrs. Runyard will leave the latter part of May for England where they will spend the summer and upon their return in the fall will take up their residence on the Runyard farm north of this village. The News is among those offering congratulations.

BRYAN ASKS DELAY

SECRETARY OF STATE DELIVERS PRESIDENT'S WORD ON JAPANESE QUESTION.

WOULD FIGHT THE NIPPONESE

Congressman Sisson of Mississippi Assails Efforts to Force Hand of the President—Sees Allens as a Constant Menace.

Sacramento, Cal., April 30.—California, in the fullness of her right as a state, may enact a right law barring Orientals from ownership, but such action would be against the earnest wish of the national administration.

This is the substance of the message William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state and personal representative of President Wilson, delivered Monday to a secret conference attended only by Governor Johnson, Lieutenant Governor Wallace and the 120 members of the California legislature.

"This is a matter which can be settled by diplomatic negotiations," said Secretary of State Bryan to the legislature. "The national government asks you to let alien land ownership legislation lie over until the next session."

After a long and stormy session, Secretary Bryan, under the fierce fire of oratory and hot definitions of state's rights, was forced to admit his inability to say California should not enact such laws as she liked. It appears the anti-alien bill will be enacted.

Washington, April 30.—A "war speech" in support of the proposed California anti-alien land law was delivered in the house by Representative Thomas Upton Sisson of Mississippi Monday.

"If we must have war or submit to this indignity, I am for war," cried Mr. Sisson. "I am with the people of California in their efforts to prevent these aliens from acquiring land. I believe that no non-resident alien should be allowed to hold a single foot of land in the territory of the United States. What would Washington say in answer to the question, war or submission? What would Jackson say? What would Cleveland say? What would McKinley say? I resent the efforts of Japan to force us to submit to her demands."

Mr. Sisson took the position that the Japanese government in protesting against alien land legislation was endeavoring to exempt its citizens from operation of the laws of the states. "The president and secretary of state," said Mr. Sisson, "should only assume an alien government that the people of that alien nation would be dealt with fairly in accordance with the law of the state. Any other position would lead to the federal government taking out from under the laws of the states the citizens of another nation. But all citizens or aliens resident in a state must be held subject to its laws, and to exempt the alien would give him privileges over and above those accorded to American citizens."

Mr. Sisson contended that the people of California had the right to pass laws regarding alien holding of land as in their judgment seemed best, when such laws do not infringe upon the federal constitution.

Mr. Sisson discussed at length points of international law involved in the dispute and declared that California was endeavoring to do only what Japan had already done.

"If Japan now threatens us with war, what would she do when millions of her civilized have acquired land in our country?" he said. "I lay down the proposition that an alien population holding land within our borders would be a fixed and constant menace. We must preserve to the American farmer the right to own the soil of our country without competition which would drag down his standard of living. I would not surrender it unless we had spent the last drop of blood in American manhood; and impoverished our country for a hundred generations."

AUSTRIA IS DEFIED

SCUTARI IS FROM TODAY MONTENEGRIN, REPLY SENT BY KING.

Government of Francis Joseph Tells Nations to Turn Invaders Out of Captured City.

London, April 26.—A circular note sent by the Austria-Hungarian government to the powers, Thursday, declared, "Take immediate combined action to turn the Montenegrins out of Scutari or we shall do it alone." The note was virtually an ultimatum. Austria-Hungary declares she cannot permit the Montenegrins to flout the decision of the great powers. The prestige of the European nations has been violated, says the note, and Austria-Hungary demands that the powers decide promptly on the steps to be taken to restore that prestige, adding that if the powers should be unable to reach a speedy decision she will see to it herself that the will of Europe is respected and that the Montenegrins vacate Scutari.

"Scutari is from today Montenegro," on the other hand is the defiant reply of King Nicholas to the invitation to surrender the hard-won Turkish citadel.

The king made this statement in the course of a speech delivered from the balcony of the royal palace at Cetinje. Among his auditors were the ministers of the Balkan states, who came to congratulate him. He added:

"Should Europe still think of snatching Scutari from Montenegro, which has given its life blood to take it, Europe will have to carry out the task by force of arms."

MISS BORDEN FOUND AGAIN

Millionaire and Daughter Now in Seclusion in a Boston Suburb.

Boston, April 29.—Gail Borden, the millionaire milk dealer of New York, and his daughter, Romona, are in seclusion in a Boston suburb, recovering from the strain of the seventeen-year-old girl's mysterious escape.

Miss Borden is said to be in a highly nervous state caused by her experiences since her dramatic escape from the sanitarium at Pompton, N. J., and her flight to this city.

Miss Borden was located at a hotel where she was staying with two girl friends and was asked to return to her father. She promptly consented. Mr. Borden was waiting for the girl when she arrived. Later it was said that the reconciliation was complete.

A person authorized to speak for Mr. Borden said:

"Mr. Borden's daughter has been restored to him by the ill advised and foolish persons who assisted her to evade his authority. The case is simply that of an undisciplined girl who found the study in discipline her father had laid out for her distasteful. The case is nothing more than a reckless escapade of a schoolgirl. She fully recognized the deplorable consequences of her foolish conduct, and is happy to be back with her father."

"Mr. Borden hopes and believes that the matter may now be treated as a purely private affair."

OIL MAGNATE MEETS CHARGES BY CLAIMING CONFIDENCE WAS MISPLACED.

FINANCIAL DEAL IN DETAIL

Henry Clay Pierce on Witness Stand Asserts That Senator Joseph Bailey Was the Recipient of Securities as Assignment.

St. Louis, April 28.—Testifying here Friday before Special Commissioner Munch in the suit of the National Bank of Commerce to recover from him securities alleged to be worth $1,500,000, which had been pledged with the bank, Henry Clay Pierce told how he had become involved in the Tennessee Central railway deal to the extent of nearly $7,000,000 through financial transactions engineered by officers of the bank. He blamed his entanglement mainly on what he termed misplaced confidence in the late J. C. Van Blarcom, president of the bank.

Pierce testified regarding the connection of former Senator Joseph Bailey of Texas, that it was his understanding that the $1,500,000 stock of the Nashville Terminal company, which the National Bank of Commerce seeks to recover, was turned over to United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas, as assignee of the Tennessee Construction company, after the loan for which it was pledged had been paid.

He said: "In 1901 or 1902, I was forced into a larger interest in the Tennessee Central enterprise than other individual subscribers to the syndicate, when my son-in-law, Richards, in my absence and without my knowledge signed my name to a guarantee to buy $1,500,000 of the first mortgage bonds of the railway. Since the collapse of the syndicate it has been necessary for me to advance over $4,000,000 in cash to the Tennessee Central railway to pay its expenses."

"After the syndicate collapsed, Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas, was made the assignee of the Tennessee Construction company and all of its properties were turned over to him. He was authorized to take charge of the affairs of the company and wind them up."

"Senator Bailey sold over $4,000,000 worth of property of the company, and it was my understanding that from the sale of these properties the loan at the Bank of Commerce, for which the Nashville Terminal stock was pledged, was paid, and that the stock then went back to Bailey as assignee for the construction company."

"The stock was later pledged to the Standard Trust company of New York by Senator Bailey, and remained for three years. It was finally delivered to Eben Richards, on my order, after the trust company had notified me that it had no further claim to it."

TWO MEN ESCAPE TOMB

RESCUED FROM MINE WHERE 90 PERISHED.

One Man Saves His Partner as They Grope Long in Effort to Flee After Finlayville Explosion.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 28.—Two men were taken alive from the Cincinnati mine of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal & Coke company at Finlayville, the scene Wednesday of a disastrous explosion.

Suffering untold agonies from exposure and from the shock of an explosion that is known to have claimed the lives of ninety-six miners, the two men, Charles Crawl and Philip Legler, each thirty-six years of age, were brought to the surface almost unconscious.

That they survived the explosion and poisonous gases of the mine for sixty hours is considered almost miraculous.

J. McVickers and Clyde Gibson, members of the coal company's rescue crew, entered the mine late last night to search for bodies. At a point two and a half miles from the entrance they heard a faint cry. Investigation disclosed the two miners alive in what is known as room 10, or entry 20.

Carrying, and at times dragging, the miners, the rescuers reached the open. Crawl seemed to grasp at once the fact that he was out of the mine. He exclaimed:

"My God, I want to see my children at once. It seems I have been in there a week."

At the hospital the men were able to talk.

"I entered the mine at 8:30 Wednesday morning," said Crawl. "Legler and I were eating lunch where we were found when, shortly after 12:30 Wednesday, we heard a dull explosion, which seemed to be far away."

"We continued eating, finishing our lunch. I began to get nervous when I did not hear the other miners at work and went to investigate."

"I found dead miners lying all around and then I knew what the explosion had been. Remembering my former experience, I told Legler to follow me and we crawled into the old workings in an effort to find a way to get out."

"I think we had been crawling fifty-two hours. In that time we had only a slice of bread apiece and we quenched our thirst with sulphur water from the mine floor."

HUNGER STRIKERS GIVE IN

Four Industrial Workers of World Willing to Give Regular Prison Fare.

Colorado Springs, Colo., April 28.—Four of the seventeen men of the Industrial Workers of the World, now on a hunger strike in the city jail, notified Chief of Police Burns that they are ready to work out the remaining seven days of their jail sentence provided they be fed the regular prison fare. The decision came at the conclusion of a stormy "star chamber session," at which those thirty of bread and water, on which they had subsisted for 48 hours, were called "insubordinate" by their companions, while the others are referred to as "standpaters."

WILSON'S TRIP CUT SHORT

Inclement Weather Causes President to Change Plans and Return to Washington.

Washington, April 28.—President Wilson returned to the White House last night as unexpectedly as he went away Saturday morning for a cruise on the Potomac on the government yacht Sylph. He was accompanied by Miss Eleanor, his youngest daughter, and Dr. Carey Grayson, U. S. A., the physician of the White House. It was the intention of the executive to remain aboard the Sylph until tonight, but the inclement weather caused a change of plans.

Strike Loses $200,000,000. Brussels, April 29.—Economists reckon the loss caused by the recent strike for manhood suffrage at $200,000,000. This, Socialist leaders declare, was well lost if the country thereby won the suffrage reform fought for.

To Spend $1,000,000 for Engines. Norfolk, Va., April 29.—The Seaboard Air Line railway awarded a contract Saturday for 50 locomotives of the "Pacific" type at a total cost of about $1,000,000. Contracts for 1,000 box cars have been made.

COAST GREET'S BRYAN

SECRETARY OF STATE REACHES SACRAMENTO—GOVERNOR JOHNSON MEETS HIM.

MESSAGE IS VERY IMPORTANT

Land Bill Amended So as to Eliminate Words "Ineligible to Citizenship" and Substituting "Those Capable of Becoming Citizens."

Sacramento, Cal., April 29.—William J. Bryan, secretary of state, arrived in Sacramento Monday. He was allowed to make his own plans for meeting members of the legislature to lay before them what reasons he may have why this state should not have a law prohibiting the ownership of land by aliens.

Secretary Bryan was met at the depot by Governor Johnson and taken to the gubernatorial mansion for breakfast. This was entirely a family affair, no others besides the secretary, Governor and Mrs. Johnson and their two sons being present.

Governor Johnson and his immediate advisers realize the importance and the gravity of the situation and are keenly anxious to hear what he has to say. As evidence of this anxiety on the part of the legislators was the conference held in Governor Johnson's office Sunday, at which the situation was discussed in all its phases. The final draft of the bill was gone over and dissected in details, so that those present might be prepared to discuss with Secretary Bryan, should he care to do so.

There were present at the conference Senators Thompson, Gates, Strubbridge, Kehoe and Benson; Speaker Young, Assemblymen Bohnett, Chandler, Benedict, Smith and Sutherland; Lieutenant Governor Wallace and Attorney General Wells. The conference lasted for about two hours and a half, and at its conclusion Governor Johnson made this statement:

"We talked about the matter generally and agreed that we would all be glad to see Secretary Bryan. We will listen to him thoughtfully and give him our closest attention."

From members who attended the conference it was learned that the bill as now constructed avoids the use of the words "ineligible to citizenship," which seemed to be the cause of so much alarm by substituting the phrase that land shall be held only by "those capable of becoming citizens." The bill has also been changed so as to allow land to be leased by Japanese for three years.

ESSAD PASHA ALBANIA'S KING

Unexpected Move Upsets Calculations of Powers Who Had Agreed on Duke of Montenegro.

Paris, April 29.—Europe has an additional new sovereign. A dispatch states that Essad Pasha, Turkish defender of Scutari, declared himself king of Albania at the Tirana chancelleries Sunday after notifying the governments at London, Paris and St. Petersburg in advance. This unexpected move has upset the calculations of the powers, who had agreed that the duke of Montenegro should become the ruler of the new kingdom.

The new king of Albania has 25,000 well armed mountaineers to sustain him and the Balkan allies feel favorable toward Essad Pasha.

The former Turkish general is descended from an old Albanian family which tried to throw off the yoke of Turkey in the eighteenth century. This explains why he was willing to risk leaving Scutari to Montenegro so that he might govern Albania with the consent of the allied Balkan states and snap his fingers at the rest of Europe.

SNUBBED BY PEACE CONGRESS

Navy League, Despite Being Officially Ignored, Will Send Committee to St. Louis Meeting.

Washington, April 28.—Although the Navy league has not been invited to the American peace congress in St. Louis this week, and the request of its officers for a place on the program was ignored, a committee has been appointed to attend the peace congress nevertheless, and find out if it will be received.

Officers of the Navy league, making announcement of their action, declared the league to be the greatest peace society in the country, and an advocate of peace and arbitration, but also of preparedness.

London, April 28.—The famous race horse, White Knight, was sold to a foreign buyer for $200,000 Friday. The figure is a record price for a single horse. White Knight is noted as one of the greatest "stayers."

"THE GRANARY OF NORTH AMERICA."

GOVERNOR SULZER SAYS THAT OF WESTERN CANADA.

The close ties of friendship existing between the United States and Canada were dwelt upon in addresses by Premier Robert L. Borden, of Canada, and Governor Sulzer, at the annual dinner of the University Club of Albany.

"Canada and the United States," said Premier Borden, "have a common heritage in the language, the literature, the laws, the institutions and the traditions which have come down to them from the men of bygone days."

"Perhaps no more instructive object lesson ever has been given to the world than the four thousand miles of the undefended boundary line from the Atlantic to the Pacific, which bears silent but eloquent testimony to the mutual confidence and respect of the two nations. Time will shortly place upon the brow of each nation the laurel of one hundred years of peace. It matters not so much as to the form of the outward celebration, but let us hope that its full significance may sink deep into the hearts of both nations, and that, whether north or south of the boundary, we may stand with bowed and reverent heads, offering grateful thanks for the Divine blessing of peace, and earnest prayers that in the century to come, mutual confidence, good-will and respect may truly animate the ideals and aspirations of both nations."

Referring to the natural resources possessed by the United States and Canada, particularly along the St. Lawrence River, the premier urged that they be "preserved and developed for the people."

Governor Sulzer predicted that the "Great Canadian Northwest is destined to become, before long, the granary of North America."

"Many of our best citizens, I regret to say," said the governor, "are leaving the States of the west and going into the Canadian northwest, because of the fertility of its soil, the liberality of the Canadian government and the ability of those people to better their conditions here."

"We should extend to them a helping hand in their onward march of progress. Instead of closing our doors by tariff barriers against these countries and their products, in my opinion, we should open them wider and do everything in our power to facilitate closer commercial relations. We want their products and they want our products, and all restrictions to prevent a fair and free exchange of goods, wares and merchandise should, in so far as possible, be eliminated."—Advertisement.

RESINOL CURED AWFUL PIMPLES

Whole Face Covered, Now Clear.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 9, 1912. "I was troubled with two or three pimples coming out on my chin. In a week or so my whole face was covered with them. Friends advised me to use different lotions and salves. I tried them; but they did me little good. If any, I finally washed the pimples with Resinol Soap and applied Resinol Ointment before going to bed. In the morning I found the swelling gone down, and the inflammation gone from the pimples. I tried this treatment for about a week, and found that most of the pimples had disappeared. I kept the treatment up for about a month, and then my face was clear of all pimples. I have used Resinol Soap since and find that the pimples do not come back." (Signed) Walter A. Stenstrom, 54 Willoughby Ave.

If you are suffering from itching, burning skin troubles, pimples, blackheads, dandruff, stubborn sores or piles, it will cost you nothing to try Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. Just send to Dept. 14-K, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., for a free sample of each. Every druggist sells Resinol.

Big Timber in Arizona

SCENE IN NATIONAL PARK

THE forests of Arizona, as yet practically untouched, are among the most important in the west. Approximately 15,000,000 acres, one-fifth of the state, is timberland, most of which lies in the highly elevated sections north and east of a line extending across the state diagonally bisecting the opposite northwestern and southeastern boundary corners.

Conifers or cone-bearing trees are the predominant growths, the broad-leaved species being few in number and of minor importance. The yellow pine, the Arizona white pine, the limber or Rocky mountain white pine, the bristle cone pine, the Engelmann spruce, the Douglas fir, the red fir, the white or silver fir, the pinyon, the red cedar or juniper, the oak and the aspen are the principal tree families represented.

The ubiquitous yellow pine is by far the most numerous and important economically, forming 95 per cent. of the merchantable timber supply. It is by nature a cliff dweller, flourishing best in the high mountain slopes between 5,000 and 8,000 feet above sea level. Of Arizona's forest trees it is the noblest. Viewed at full maturity in its native haunts it is good to look upon; its lawless cylindrical trunk towering 150 feet into the crystal blue, its outspreading top tossing, dancing, sighing gleefully in the amber sunlight like a thing intoxicated with the nectar of heaven.

Indigenous to about the same soil conditions and altitudinal limitations as the yellow pine, and ranking next in importance for their timber to the order named, are the Douglas fir, Engelmann spruce and white fir. Their scarcity, however, makes them unappreciable factors in the trade in Arizona. By reason of the softness of their fiber or their desert or alpine characteristics the other trees named, excepting the limber or Rocky mountain white pine and the oak, which are utilized in some instances, are relatively unimportant from the lumberman's standpoint.

Billions of Feet.

An accurate estimate of the standing timber in Arizona is a very difficult matter to determine further than the fact that it reaches formidable proportions, running into billions of feet, board measure, worth in the various manners in which it may be turned to account hundreds of millions of dollars and constituting, in the aggregate, a resource that in the fulness of time will contribute to the welfare of the state beyond the most rosy dreams of the times.

Title to this sylvan Golconda is vested in the United States government, which through the forest service is proving a wise landlord in that a varied resources are being administered in a manner that will benefit a largest number of users along all lines where no serious or irreparable injury is liable to result. Where there is no danger of extermination, where no damage to streams or riparian may follow, the ripe timber is offered for sale to the highest bidder, under conditions designed to prevent monopoly of the supply and to maintain the utility of the forests. On account of lack of adequate transportation facilities adjacent to the best timber sections sales have not been so great as they might be. Mills at Flag and Williams, and two or three places near at hand, have operation for a number of years, except possibly in one instance, depended largely on rail forests for their timber.

Being no navigable streams in the forests of Arizona, the logs can be floated only on the Colorado river, and the lumber concerns construct lines of rail and use of their own into the logged, the daily capacity being such that less means of transportation. As a rule these roads extend several miles into the forest tapping the primal sections. When the logs are sufficiently cut over the track is taken up and put down elsewhere. At certain desirable locations along the route and at the outer terminus of the road, the lumber camps are situated where the loggers are domiciled.

Primitive Occupation.

No part of the lumberman's occupation is more interesting and primitive perhaps than that of getting out the logs in the woods. A trip to one of the camps where this part of the business may be witnessed is a novel spectacle, especially so when one makes the trip on a logging trail. The felling of the trees, the cutting of the trunks into logs, the clearing away of the brush is done with the same tools, the ax and saw, the same expenditure of physical strength, expanded by the pioneer home builder in stripping away the magnificent hardwoods that fell beneath his sturdy stroke in the group of states carved out of the territory between the Alleghenies and the Mississippi river.

The roads upon which the unsawed timber is transported from the forests to the mills are railways, though differing from others of their kind in that they were built for no purpose other than freight logs. One must perforce ride on the framework of the cars or on the tender of the engine, which is scarcely a hardship to him who feels the lure of the outdoors. Before all else permission for the ride must be obtained from the mill owners or manager. Out into the clearings one is borne over hills and valleys once instinct with arborescent life, now denuded and overgrown with the littering of the slaughtered trees that fell to the mallet hand of the lord of creation. Finally a shrill blast of the engine announces the arrival at the camp, which consists of four or five large ungainly structures and a number of smaller ones, all built of rough pine lumber, more substantial buildings being impracticable as the place at best will be occupied but temporarily while the sections contiguous thereto are being cut over. It is in settlements of this character that the "lumberjacks," the men employed in the camps, live and have their being month in and month out. Overshadowed always by day and by night is the solemn grandeur of the forest. Each morning the loggers go forth to their work of destruction; each setting sun looks down on a larger treeless waste. Now and then the more convivial of the number repair to the neighboring towns to pass away the time, looking not disdainfully, the while, on the nowing bowl.

Out of the Dictograph.

"My son," said Dug Watson to his oldest boy, "don't pose and assume to be a superior being while you are courting Sallie Hankins. Persuading a girl that you are her ideal is almost sure to invite her just resentment later on."

People got over enjoying highly romantic novels the same as they got over liking nursery rhymes. You can come pretty near guessing a woman's age if she will tell you honestly who her favorite author is.

There are things that even conscientious effort cannot accomplish. The harder some men try to sing the worse it sounds. Grandpa Miltlicker, who is eighty years old, says he can't see why there should be any fuss about women smoking cigarettes. He has known a number of perfect ladies who dipped snuff.

"Does your daughter play by notes?" "No," answered Si Smiling, "she plays by ear. We are buying the piano by note."

Queer.

"Some of those printed receipts," said Mrs. Lapelling, "are very puzzling. What can you make of this one, for instance, as a wash for the hands? Glycerin, forty parts; carbolic acid, one part; vinegar, quantum suffragit."

IRON HAND IN EGYPT

Lord Kitchener's Sway In Nile Country Is Masterful.

Speaking of Education of Youths. "We Don't Want Them to Get Their Hands Soft," He Says—Holds Some Unique Views.

Cairo, Egypt.—No explanation of the government of Egypt is adequate without the presentation of the name of Lord Kitchener, who since his appointment as British agent in October of 1911 has been increasingly the unique and dynamic force behind all the government agencies, alike the protector of Imperial English interests and the humanitarian regenerator of the land he loves, writes Clayton Sedgwick Cooper in a letter from Cairo to the Christian Science Monitor.

He came to Egypt to assist in the completion of the splendid work of regeneration commenced by Lord Cromer. He himself had before contributed to the problem as the soldier leader in Khartoum, the conqueror of the Khalifa, sweeping out of the Sudan the fanatical dervishes, nor did he arrive one moment too soon to arrest the tide that was surely carrying Egypt backward from the high and superb statesmanship of Lord Cromer's regime.

The presence of an iron hand was needed and not a few of Egypt's leaders were unconsciously turning in their minds toward Kitchener. As the conversation of a certain Egyptian officer who commanded a brigade at Omdurman infers: "Lord Kitchener is a soldier. He is a man of iron. He made a clean sweep of the Sudan. He is just, but he is not to be trifled with. There is not a nationalist in Egypt who would not bury himself in the sand if Lord Kitchener came to Cairo. He is the man for the job."

After an interview with Lord Kitchener in Cairo I realized that he was Kitchener of Khartoum.

"the man for the job." I also realized why the people of the Nile country, when asked why the nationalists were quiet, why the schools of agriculture and commerce were thriving, why thousands of acres of rich Egyptian land were being reclaimed by new systems of irrigation and drainage, why the European Umcserver is unceremoniously disappearing, why the journals of the agitators have been going out of business at the rate of one each day, why thousands of fellahs were beginning to have a growing confidence in the government as evidenced by their trust in the postal savings bank, or why Turkey did not send its soldiers across Egypt in its war with Tripoli—yes, and why even Downing street seemed affected with a new confidence—always gave the same answer—Lord Kitchener.

It is said that without bayonets behind or before, moral force cannot exist. Egypt sees in the soldier who drove out the mad Mahdi hosts the spirit of command, which seems to be the only attitude deeply respected by

WED AT COFFIN OF MOTHER

Chicago Couple Carry Out Woman's Last Dying Wish—Funeral a Wedding Trip.

Chicago.—The most urgent request of the late Mrs. Peter Peterson, 1422 East Seventeenth street, to her son, Christ Peterson, during her final years was that he get married before her death.

"If not before I die, then at least before I am buried," she told him. "The son was in no hurry, and not thinking there was any likelihood of his mother dying soon, he kept putting it off. Perhaps one factor in the postponement was the hesitating attitude of the girl of his choice, Miss Hannah Jensen, 9333 Adams avenue.

But on last Saturday Mrs. Peterson while visiting a neighbor was stricken with apoplexy.

Young Peterson remembered the last wish his mother had expressed. He telephoned Miss Jensen and obtained her consent, then telephoned the license clerk and discovered it was too late to get a marriage license.

The Rev. William Steinmeyer, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, was asked to officiate.

On Tuesday the minister was telephoned again and asked to appear a few minutes before the time set for the funeral service. He was escorted into the room where the casket lay. At the head of the coffin in deep mourning stood young Peterson and Miss Jensen hand in hand.

Some one whispered the circumstances to the shocked clergyman, and after he had regained his composure he marched forward, forgot the funeral service temporarily, and united the couple in marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson took their places with the other mourners and the funeral proceeded. They went to the cemetery, watched the burial, and returned to the house. That was their only wedding trip, Peterson said philosophically.

SUFFRAGETTES STORM THE CAPITOL

Scene at the front steps of the capitol in Washington showing the women who are working for equal suffrage marching into the halls of congress to present petitions to the lawmakers for equal suffrage.

Oriental, especially in certain stages of their development.

As Lord Kitchener sat and talked and questioned in the British residence with its beautiful tropical gardens sloping down to the Nile; as he spoke in short, crisp phrases his gospel, the new plans for the fellahs, telling us of his ideals for the practical rather than the theoretical education of Egyptian youth—"We don't want them to get their hands soft"—I was inclined to agree with the Egyptian opinion.

It is to be hoped that this efficient official who commands an army to whom the name "Kitchener" is an incentive similar to that of the name "Napoleon" to the old guard, and who in a comparatively brief time has gained the confidence of the Egyptians who have most at heart the country's good, will receive the unstinted support of the home government in the progressive and highly utilitarian measures which he is now promulgating for the new Egypt.

CRUSADE ON NOISE

Woman's War on Nuisance Becomes World Wide.

Battle Begun In New York City Eight Years Ago to Suppress All Needless Clamor—Zone of Quiet Extended.

New York.—That movement to suppress unnecessary noise which Mrs. Isaac L. Rice began in this town eight years ago has now extended to foreign countries, and the suppression of unnecessary noise has been added to the reforms of international scope, says the Evening Post. Three years ago Prof. Theodore Lessing of Hannover, through the efforts of Mrs. Isaac L. Rice, the founder of the Society for the Suppression of Unnecessary Noise has been added to the band, the first organization of its kind in Germany. Today there are 39 local societies scattered throughout that country, and Professor Lessing, who is in constant communication with Mrs. Rice, reports the movement is steadily growing.

In England practically nothing had been done until Mrs. Rice had successfully launched her campaign in this city. There is, however, at this time the betterment of London association, working along these same lines, with the hope that its efforts will eventually be emulated throughout England.

Through the association in New York all unnecessary noise has been regulated in hospital zones, and night, with "its great gift of sleep," is no longer a menace to the patient. School zones, too, though they do not rejoice in primeval quiet, are no longer beset by the noisy pests which once destroyed the nerves of teachers and made real work for the children difficult.

Mrs. Rice feels, however, that the greatest work of the association has been done in promoting and popularizing the same Fourth throughout the country. There is still a great chance to extend this branch of the work, and an effort is being made to convince the school children, not only of the danger of the firecracker, but of the pleasures to be derived from the new method of celebrating.

Statistics show that in 1908 there were 5,623 casualties resulting from the efforts of Young America to celebrate the national holiday.

In 1912 this number had been reduced to 888, but from these figures one can easily see that there is still much to be accomplished. Mrs. Rice has had the co-operation of the mayors of many cities, who have put themselves on record as opposed to anything but the same celebration.

Since the crusade against unnecessary noise was started in 1905 there has been an improvement of 85 per cent. in tugboat whistling on the river. It was then a personal matter, but as the Hudson is a federal waterway, William S. Bennett, member of congress from New York, succeeded in having a bill passed on February 2, 1907, which regulated this unnecessary disturbance. Last year, through the ruling of the board of health, the noise of motor boats was also regulated.

Associated with Mrs. Rice as an advisory board are William Dean Howells, Nicholas Murray Butler, Cardinal Farley, Dr. W. H. Maxwell and others, while the board of directors is made up of various superintendents of hospitals.

WOMAN SUFFERED TEN YEARS

From Nervousness Caused by Female Ills—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Auburn, N. Y.—"I suffered from nervousness for ten years, and had such organic pains that sometimes I would lie in bed four days at a time, could not eat or sleep and did not want anyone to talk to me or bother me at all. Sometimes I would suffer for seven hours at a time. Different doctors did the best they could for me until four months ago I began giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and now I am in good health."—Mrs. WILLIAM H. GILL, 15 Pleasant Street, Auburn, New York.

"Doctor's Daughter Took It." St. Cloud, Minn.—"I was so run down by overwork and worry that I could not stand it to have my children talk alone or walk heavy on the floor. One of my friends said, 'Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I know a doctor's daughter here in town who takes it and she would not take it if it were not good.'"

FACE ALMOST COVERED WITH PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS

Atchison, Kan.—"For a number of years I suffered very greatly from skin eruption. My face was very red and irritated, being almost covered with pimples and blackheads. The pimples were scattered over my face. They were a fine rash with the exception of a few large pimples on my forehead and chin. My face burned and looked red as if exposed to either heat or cold. It was not only unsightly but very uncomfortable. I tried several remedies but couldn't get any relief. I was recommended to use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. "I applied the Cuticura Ointment in the evening, leaving it for about five minutes, then washing it off with Cuticura Soap and hot water. I washed with the Cuticura Soap and hot water also several times during the day. After about four months of this application, my face was cleared of the pimples." # Spring Opening

ON ACCOUNT of the lateness of the present season we have heretofore refrained from putting our new spring goods forth to their best advantage, realizing that a Spring Opening would be at a disadvantage to both our customers and ourselves under the existing conditions. However, as the weather man is promising us an improvement and the need of spring fabrics is daily increasing we have selected SATURDAY, MAY 3rd, as our opening day with sale to continue for one week, at which time we will place before the people of Antioch and vicinity one of the largest and most varied up-to-date lines of merchandise that has ever made its appearance in this village. This is your opportunity to secure bargains. Only a small amount of which is listed below. International Corn Planters are equipped with a variable drop or a device which controls the number of kernels in a hill. The drop can be changed while the machine is in motion. It can also be used as an automatic or power drop or planting in hills without using the check wire. The runner frame is constructed of one single piece of square tubing. It is also equipped with an automatic marker that raises as the shoes are lifted from the ground and drops into place as shoes are forced into the ground. The stop clutch is of the roller type, the rollers are large in diameter and have heavier pins or bearings than are found on any other planter. The gear frame is made of one continuous piece of high carbon steel. The planter is easily changed from a check row to drilling or visa versa. These planters can be furnished with fertilizer attachments. Boot and hopper construction is of the latest improved type.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

All subscriptions to the pipe organ and parsonage debt fund are now due. We can not order the organ or pay the parsonage debt until all is paid in, so it will be a special favor to us if all subscriptions are paid at once. It takes at least sixty days to get the organ installed and we are anxious to have it dedicated Sunday, July 6.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will preach on "The Prudent Steward." Song and preaching service at 7:30.

Don't forget that the Sunday school contest is now on, the white's are ahead. 107 out last Sunday, let us try to beat it next Sunday.

We still lack some money for the pipe organ and parsonage debt. If you have not had an opportunity to help us to finish this good work. See the pastor about it.

Lobsters That Do Not Boil Red.
Native French lobsters are growing scarce as the result of a series of epidemics, and an attempt is being made to introduce those from Roumania, Hungary and Russia. But these foreign lobsters have little flesh on them and turn a dull color when they are boiled.

To give them if possible the attractive scarlet tint, appetizing odor and delicious taste of the native Professor Léger is making researches in his laboratory of pisciculture in the University of Grenoble, and he hopes, in naturalizing the foreign species, to give them some at least of the French characteristics.

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Lightfoot, an American with an affected English accent, receives a present from a friend in China. The present is a small, ornate box. Lightfoot opens it and finds a pair of earrings. He is surprised and delighted. He then notices a small card tucked into the box. It reads: "For the lady who loves rubies." Lightfoot is puzzled. He then notices a small, ornate box. He opens it and finds a pair of earrings. He is surprised and delighted. He then notices a small card tucked into the box. It reads: "For the lady who loves rubies." Lightfoot is puzzled. He then notices a small, ornate box. He opens it and finds a pair of earrings. He is surprised and delighted. He then notices a small card tucked into the box. It reads: "For the lady who loves rubies." Lightfoot is puzzled.

"Come on back, dearest!" he pleaded. "You have been dreaming." And under the light of a great red cluster of grapes, pendant from the mouth of a grinning Bacchus, I recognized with horror the yellow mat of hair and freckled face of Billings' cub brother. On the instant, with a built-like roar, Billings sprang forward, but I was quicker still. But faster than either of us to reach the scene were the two elderly men, together with Miss Warfield, the housekeeper, and a couple of maids. Frances darted like a bird to Foxy Grandpa, and then the figures of the women shut her from view.

Billings and I had paused, half-way to the landing. It looked as though the elder Billings was amply capable of handling the occasion now. He had backed the youth against the wall behind, and his language was of a kind I hated to have my darling hear. Every time the other offered to expostulate, his father broke out again. "You are a disgrace to an honored name!" he roared. "And the only explanation left for me to offer our guests is that you are drunk and don't know where you are!"

"Oh, father!" faltered the boy. And then he turned his black shrouded figure to the pale marble against which he leaned and seemed to me his very heart would sob away. "What's the matter, dad?" came a voice from the head of the stairway. "What in thunder is all the row about?"

"By George!" gasped Billings. Everybody looked upward—one of the women screamed. For there, slowly advancing down the angle leading to the landing, his yellow mop of hair shining above the dark collar of a dressing-robe, was the duplicate of the youth cowering under the elder Billings' wrath. And out of a dead, tense, silence, came his voice again: "Can't any of you speak?" He touched the figure on the shoulder. "Who are you?" he asked in an odd, strained voice.

The black figure turned toward him a face agonized in grief. "I—I don't know," came a voice pitifully—his voice, it seemed. The cub just stood like a statue for a moment—stood as we all stood. Then slowly his hand went out and touched the hand of his double. Slowly his fingers swept the face, the hair; gradually his eyes closed, as though he were sensing by touch alone.

Suddenly a loud cry leaped from his throat. "Sister!" he shouted. And he swept the black figure to him. Then, tossing back his head, the youth faced us with blazing, angry eyes, looking as David must have, when he faced old what's-his-name. "If there's a man among you, I'd like to know what this means!" he cried.

There was a blank silence for an instant, and then—"Perhaps I can explain," said a voice. And up the stairway advanced Professor Dozenberry.

CHAPTER XXXII.

In the Glow of the Rubies. Evening had come again. In fact, it was almost bedtime. Frances and I sat before the hearth in the library, looking silently into the red heart of the dying embers of fragrant pine cones. For in the heights of the Poconico Hills it often is chilly on summer nights.

My darling sat on a low fauteuil, her chin resting upon her hand, her beautiful eyes fixed dreamily, inscrutably, upon the fading coals. In her lap lay the spread of the crimson pajamas.

She was thinking—thinking—I wondered what! And I was thinking how jolly rum it all was; that Francis wasn't Frances, that the professor wasn't Billings, Colonel Francis Kirkland wasn't Foxy Grandpa and wasn't the trumpy's father after all; and that the trumpy, herself—bless her, her name was Elizabeth—wasn't Frances, and wasn't a trumpy at all, but just a jolly, nice, homely old dear, you know. And I was trying to catch and hold some of the deuced queer things the professor had discoursed upon about ancient Occidental what's-its-name, and astral bodies, obsession, psychological research and all that sort of thing. Somehow, dash it, it had all seemed devilish unreasonable and improbable to me—couldn't get hold of it, you know; but as everybody else had said "Ah-h-h!" and had wagged their heads as though they understood, I just said: "Dash it, of course, you know!" and re-crossed my legs and took a fresher grip on my monocle.

The most devilish hard thing to get hold of had been that Frances had never sat on the arm of my Morris chair, had never told me she liked me better than any man she had ever met, and had never called me "Dicky" at any time or anywhere. I wondered if she ever would, and how the deuce it was possible that when they professed to love each other so much, they should be so far apart. I was just wondering when I saw a flash of light. It was a flash of light, a lightning blaze of red. And nothing twisted and turned at last to lend gray. Over the spread of all, swept wave after wave of golden, crimsoned pictures—temples and pagodas—dragons that flicked fiery tongues at us—strange faces that came and went, leering hideously into our own. And then of a sudden it was all faded—gone! The breeze from the open window stirred the ashes to the side. She dropped back with a deep sigh. "They're gone," she breathed mournfully. "Never mind," I said; "you've these left." And daintily I laid my hand upon the one that clasped the rubies. And I thrilled as it lay still beneath my own. "Good-by, you dear old, wicked, enchanted pajamas," she said. "I don't voices from the smoking-room—Colonel Kirkland and the judge debating something about treaty ports and the Manchurian railway. Through the French windows from the open loggia came the eager, pitched tones of the professor and the trumpy—no, Elizabeth, I mean—discussing Aldebaran and Betelgeuse, dead stars, star clusters and the nebular hypothesis.

Within the room Billings had snapped out the lights, to bring out the blazing fire of his treasured ruby, and from the tray in the dark corner where he was closing it in his collection vault, it gleamed like the end of a bright cigar. The other four were absent, clutched in my darling's hand and the crimson shine gleamed bravely through her finger bars. "Carbuncles—ancient carbuncles," the professor had called them, "that the Chinese believed their dragons carried in their mouths, in their black caves in days of old, to furnish light whereby they could see to devour their victims." And that I believed, for I could see some practical sense about it!

"What I should like to know," said the dear, precious cub, hugging his knee by the mantel, "is where I come in!"

"You don't come in," said Billings, lifting him playfully by the ear; "you come out!" And out they went. And my dear girl and I were like what's-his-name's picture—alone at last, you know. She stirred softly and her sigh came like the wind through the trees at night.

"I suppose we will have to burn them," she said dolefully; "the professor says it is the only thing to do." "Jolly shame, I say!" I murmured indignantly. "It seems a crime," she said softly, and there was a little choke in her voice. She slipped to the soft-berbered rug before the fire. I gently brought my chair closer to her.

For a moment she pressed her cheek against the crimson mass, then kneeling forward, laid it gently on the glowing coals. There was a flash, a lightning blaze of red that almost blinded us, and then for a brief space a field of shining ash. Against this the tiny serpent frogs writhed and

"Ship me somewhere east of Suez," where the best is like the worst, Where there's no Ten Commandments an' a man can raise a thrir!"

"By Jove!" I said, interested. "For the temple bells are callin', and it's there that I would be—By the old Mouleins pagoda, lookie! lazy at the sea!"

I brought my hand down on my knee. "Oh, I say, you know—or—Frances," I exclaimed with enthusiasm, "we'll go there for our honeymoon, by Jove! Shall we—eh?"

And then the jolly rubies rolled up.

There was a flash, a lightning blaze of red. And nothing twisted and turned at last to lend gray. Over the spread of all, swept wave after wave of golden, crimsoned pictures—temples and pagodas—dragons that flicked fiery tongues at us—strange faces that came and went, leering hideously into our own. And then of a sudden it was all faded—gone! The breeze from the open window stirred the ashes to the side. She dropped back with a deep sigh. "They're gone," she breathed mournfully.

headed to the floor. And nothing stirred but the ashes of the haunted pajamas!

And then—Oh, but Frances says that's all!

THE END.

Eskimo Wife a Hard Worker. Eskimo widowers often remarry within a week after the demise of the wife. The helpmate of the savage does most of the work, and he is almost helpless without her. She makes and breaks camp, cooks, cuts up her husband's kill and carries it to camp. She dresses the skins of deer and seals. She makes the footgear and clothes, paddles the canoe and carries every burden. Without her no domestic arrangement can go forward.

GIPSIES OF SPAIN

Odd People Who Live in Caves Built in Sides of Mountains.

They Neither Work Nor Pay Rent, but Part of the Year They Wander a Bit—Sell Antiques to Tourists.

Granada, Spain.—They are too wise to pay rent. These Spanish gipsies I speak of live in caves in the sides of mountains that tower above Granada, in Andalusia, where the sun shines as it really ought to shine. They have been there a long time. They were there before the Moors. They were there in the time of the Romans. Their ancestors saw the gleam from the swords of Roman soldiers as they marched along the valley beneath them.

They are delightful people, who neither work nor pay rent. At a certain season of the year they wander a bit—just to feel that they really are gipsies—and then they come back again to their caves to tell the fortunes of visiting innocent tourists and to sell the mobsters of immense antiquity that have been made in Granada but a few days or weeks before.

These caves where they live form, in a rough kind of way, a village. It is called the Albicacia. It practically adjoins Granada, but it is as distant from Granada as the gipsies are from the Spaniards themselves, and when you are in it you feel that you are in a place that is really old—as old, in a way, as the Sierra Nevada itself.

As a rule, the caves do not go deep into the side of the mountain. They are fitted up inside as houses would be fitted up.

I said that a cave was fitted up as a house would be fitted up. But perhaps that is not a good way to put it. When you enter from the bright light outside you can at first see nothing. But when your eyes get used to the gloom the first thing that will doubtless strike you is what looks like a long black body, hanging either from the roof or along the side of the wall. It is only a pigskin, more or less filled with wine. But there are other things and shapes that you cannot make out in the gloom.

It is said that the gipsy women are now and then beautiful. This may or may not be so. I can only say that if it is so I must have been unlucky.

Gipsie Mother and Child.

For I never saw a good looking gipsy woman in the Albicacia; and I was there several times.

The men, however, were fine, villainous looking fellows. They generally wore the air of retired or quiescent cutthroats and highway robbers. They looked at once lazy and agile and powerful. Their faces were hard and destructive, and their eyes were fierce. They seemed to have very much of the physical and mental make-up of the Spanish gentlemen who, in more interesting times, used to send the ears of captives to their friends, so as to stimulate them in the matter of ransom.

To show that some of them now and then went in for fathering grief in the time-honored manner, I must relate an incident that was told to me by the English consul in Granada. It seems that a year or so before a gipsy of a particularly engaging personality persuaded an Englishman to hire him as a guide. This gipsy could speak bad English with fluency, and he went with the Englishman in the capacity of monitor and general guide, philosopher and friend. He explained to him the wonders of the Alhambra, and he told things that had happened there, together with things that had never happened there.

But one day there came a rift within the lute. They were in a longsome place outside Granada, and the gipsy made a polite request to the effect that the Englishman should load him all the money had on him, and his watch and chain. But the obtuse Englishman impolitely refused the gipsy's polite request. The gipsy made a quick move for his knife, but the Englishman was quicker. He whipped out a revolver and shot the gipsy dead. Then he gave himself up to the police in Granada. But the police did nothing, save to express their regrets.
